Tasting notes

There is considerable excitement at the début of this wine and on first taste, it became abundantly clear why Florence and Pascal have added this parcel to the Domaine. The nose is of wild fruit, with juicy animal notes in a fascinating mélange of aromas but also with a lighter perfume and ethereal side. On the palate, there is more finesse to the textures and a greater flesh than seen with the Clos Vougeot or the Echézeaux. As you work the wine, there is jaw-dropping depth and a real sense of wonder. We can't wait to watch this one grow & an exceptionally impressive début. Drink from 2015.
