Tasting notes

On east facing slopes with vines up to 60 years old, this is serious stuff. 2011 saw millerandage in some plots, but the smaller berries led to great concentration of flavour. A little austere when we tasted, this is going to need some time. Restrained, elegant citrus on the nose, with hints of the yellow fleshy fruit to come. It has a wonderful pure, silvery quality with linear mineral persistence. The acidity is perfect and flows through right to the end of the long finish. This is going to be wonderful. Drink 2015-2025.

About the producer

Nestled between the 1er Cru vineyards of Côte de Léchet and Vaillons in the south-east of Chablis, Domaine Sébastien Dampt stretches over 7 ha of some of the most sought-after terroirs in the region. Sébastien set up his Domaine in 2007, after working closing with his father Daniel and brother Vincent at Domaine Daniel Dampt. A clear superstar of the future, his wines are some of the purest, most ethereal expressions of Chablis – mostly vinified in stainless steel to safeguard the fruit's nuanced expression of his terroirs.
