About the producer

The enigmatic Raveneau brothers are responsible for some of the most fabulous white wines made anywhere in the world. Their small family house with its tiny cellar, tucked away on a side street on the fringes of the village, is the ultimate in off-the-beaten-track artisanal dwellings but the contents of their barrels is nothing short of alchemy. Just how can grape juice be converted into something so utterly wonderful?! As you might expect, such a question asked directly is generally met with a Gallic shrug but if Jean-Marie and Bernard can keep the same form going in the decades to come, their legend will surely be entrenched for ever.
