Deep, ruby colour with cherry highlights. Sweet blackcurrant Aromas leading onto a rich, medium-bodied, spicy (white pepper). Palate with a chewy texture and mature tannins. For drinking over the next 3 years.

About the producer

The small village of Cairanne is situated to the east of the Rhône river, between Orange and Vaison-la-Romaine, and has a history in wine production dating back to the Middle Ages. It is here that the vineyards of L'Ameillaud were first planted. Since 1983, Nick Thompson has been running the Domaine and overseeing the wine production with the help of his wife Sabine. He embarked on a complete replanting programme and renovated the run-down cellars and winery. The Domaine has since gone from strength to strength; the Côtes du Rhône are Cairanne reds offer excellent value for money and are full of the classic charm of wondern Southern Rhône wines.
