Tasting notes

Golden colour and intense floral notes that open toward fruit and honey, which recur on the palate accompanied by good body, persistence and balance. Complex and with good structure. Its slight acidity lends a particularly pleasant and fresh note.

About the producer

Although the vineyards that make up Punset have been cultivated by the Marcarino family for generations, it is truly thanks to Marina and her extraordinary energy that the estate is what it is today. In the 1980s, she chose to pursue organic farming—a demanding path that culminated in Punset becoming the first estate in Italy to receive organic certification. Her passion for the soil and the environment led her to embrace biodynamics and the agronomic philosophy of Masanobu Fukuoka. From one of the healthiest vineyards in Italy, Marina crafts wines that are full of life, energy, and pure expression of terroir.
